

Catholic Answers can't sue IRS

Dennis Coday | Oct. 16, 2009 NCR Today

Courthouse News Service, a news service for lawyers, reports that a federal judge has ruled that San Diego-based Catholic Answers can't sue the IRS [1].

After Catholic Answers posted an e-letter calling 2004 presidential candidate John Kerry a "notorious sinner," the Internal Revenue Service deemed it an "act of political intervention," something prohibited for tax-exempt organizations.

Catholic Answers had to pay $831.41 in tax plus interest. Catholic Answers paid up, but then appealed. The IRS eventually abated the tax and refunded the money, but then Catholic Answers sued.

A federal judge in San Diego today granted the government's motion to dismiss the suit, saying because it had received a full refund, Catholic Answer's claims were moot.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/27/2015 - 23:45): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/catholic-answers-cant-sue-irs?splash=>

Links:

[1] http://www.courthousenews.com/2009/10/16/Catholic_Nonprofit_Loses_Tax_Claim_Against_IRS.htm