

It's frozen over

I actually agree with former Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin on something. Newsweek's choice of a cover photo of her in running shorts for an serious article about her political aspirations is sexist and inappropriate (though the headline, "How do you solve a problem like Sarah?" is pretty clever). She blasted the choice on her Facebook page [1]. I have to agree with her on this. A similar photo of a male politician would be unheard of to accompany such an article.
