

The bishops on marriage

Nicole Sotelo | Nov. 27, 2009

Certain bishops are contributing money to defeat the potential for all families to have equal protections under law, many Catholic laity are exemplary in their espousal of equality. In fact, of all Christian denominations, Catholics are the most favorable toward LGBT acceptance in the U.S. with 58% of Catholics believing that homosexuality should be accepted by society (Public Religion Research, 2008).

And while Catholics overall are evenly divided on the question of marriage equality with a provision for religious exemptions, in a few short years that is certain to change. The youngest generation of Catholics between 18 and 29 years of age are 60 percent in favor of full marriage equality (Public Religion Research, 2008). And the corresponding numbers across other generations are also growing.

The bishops know this and are struggling to promote their narrow vision of marriage. Last week the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops issued a ?pastoral letter? on marriage that was anything but pastoral.

Read the rest of this commentary: 65 million reasons to be thankful [1].

Source URL (retrieved on 01/27/2015 - 15:47): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/bishops-marriage>

Links:

[1] <http://ncronline.org/news/politics/65-million-reasons-be-thankful>