

Caritas staff blog from Haiti

Dennis Coday | Jan. 19, 2010 NCR Today

Michelle Hough, a communications officer for Caritas Internationalis, the umbrella organization for national Catholic charities, was sent to Haiti as a member of the international rescue staff to help with operations in the area.

Hough has been recounting her experiences through daily blog updates from Haiti.

A story about Hough is here: Caritas officer blogs experiences in Haiti [1]
