

Panel discussion on the evolution of faith and reason

Rich Heffern | Jan. 18, 2011 Eco Catholic

Tonight Evolutionary Christianity will broadcast its second live panel discussion. At 5:00pm Pacific / 8:00pm Eastern, host Michael Dowd will be joined by Karl Giberson, Ilia Delio, John Haught, and Joan Roughgarden for a roundtable discussion on "The Evolution of Faith and Reason".

Some of the questions that will be explored are: What does a healthy marriage between faith and reason look like? What widely accepted scientific facts present challenges to our faith? Why is it essential for religious people to offer inspiring interpretations of what God is revealing to us through science, and how can this be done most effectively?

This is a live event, with ample opportunity for you to pose questions for the panelists during the broadcast itself (via the computer interface). To sign up for access visit the Evolutionary Christianity blog's home page [1].

Source URL (retrieved on 01/30/2015 - 19:32): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/eco-catholic/panel-discussion-evolution-faith-and-reason>

Links:

[1] <http://evolutionarychristianity.com/blog/>