

Reagan the Centrist?

Michael Sean Winters | Feb. 3, 2011 | Distinctly Catholic

Of course, it would be considered political and economic heresy to suggest that the country return to the tax rates that Ronald Reagan put in place. Top rate? 50 percent. Ah, those were the days. Now, Reagan's former Solicitor General Charles Fried has endorsed, quite bluntly, the constitutionality of the health care reform law. Grant Gallicho tells the tale at Commonwealth [1].
