

Diocese of Trenton closes migration and refugee services office

Tom Gallagher | Jun. 18, 2012 NCR Today

According to The Times of Trenton [1]:

Overwhelmed by a surge in the refugee resettlement cases it handles, the Diocese of Trenton will close its more than 30-year-old office of migration and refugee services at the end of the month, leaving the region without a resettlement agency.

The article also disturbingly notes:

All the Catholic schools in Trenton were closed, along with some parishes, and in late 2010 the diocese spent $550,000 to buy a house in Lawrence for the recently installed Bishop David O'Connell, rather than have him live in the official residence on West State Street.

Source URL (retrieved on 02/01/2015 - 09:56): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/diocese-trenton-closes-migration-and-refugee-services-office>

Links:

[1] http://www.nj.com/mercer/index.ssf/2012/06/diocese_of_trenton_closes_offi.html