

A conversation about the church on All Things Considered

Tom Roberts | Jul. 30, 2012 NCR Today

I was part of a conversation with Guy Raz, host of National Public Radio's Weekend "All Things Considered," about declining affiliation with organized religion and some reasons for the decline that are peculiar to the Catholic church and the priest sex abuse crisis.

Below is a player if you'd like to listen. Here's a link [1] to the NPR page with a full transcript as well.

Source URL (retrieved on 03/06/2015 - 00:33): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/conversation-about-church-all-things-considered>

Links:

[1] <http://www.npr.org/2012/07/28/157538238/u-s-still-religious-but-trust-in-institutions-wanes>