

Teaching the "Nones"

Michael Sean Winters | Jan. 2, 2013 | Distinctly Catholic

Over at CatholicMoralTheology.com [1], Julie Rubio writes about how teaching theology to undergraduates has changed in recent years as the ranks of her students fill with "nones" - those who when asked their religious affiliation self-report that they have "none." It is depressing reading, but she points us, with some help from Paul Elie, towards a part of the solution, namely, we need great artists who will allow their faith to help generate culture.

Source URL (retrieved on 02/01/2015 - 12:26): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/teaching-nones>

Links:

[1] <http://catholicmoraltheology.com/our-students-in-2012/>