

Note to Readers

Michael Sean Winters | Feb. 11, 2013 | Distinctly Catholic

For reasons known but to God and the electric company, we have lost power at my house. I ran to the neighborhood market, which has wifi, to write and send in an article to The New Republic on the Pope's resignation. That should be posted soon. Heading back to the house now to see if the power is back on. Not a good day to lose power. I apologize for the lack of further posts so far.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/28/2015 - 17:47): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/note-readers-12>