ROME -- NCR staff writer Joshua McElwee was in the Vatican press briefing room watching the last meeting between Pope Benedict XVI and the college of cardinals. The meeting was held in Clementine Hall inside the Apostolic Palace, but broadcast live beginning at 11 p.m. Rome time (4 a.m. USA central time).

McElwee described the event as it unfolded on this Tweeter feed @joshjmac [1] as did Catholic News Service @CatholicNewsSvc [2].

Here's a copy of their tweets:

The meeting began with remarks by Cardinal Angelo Sodano, Dean of the College of Cardinals:

Sodano: ?With great trepidation,? the cardinals ?gather closely around you.?

+Sodano: Cardinals grateful to #Pope [3] for ?witness of selfless apostolic service? for good of church & ?all humanity.?

+Sodano calls #Pope [3] ?beloved and venerated successor of Peter.?

+Sodano: ?You prepare to leave us, knowing the rudder of the barque of Peter will pass to other hands.?

+Sodano: Apostolic succession will continue until the Lord comes again, creating ?new heavens & a new earth.?

+Sodano: Like disciples on road to Emmaus, cardinals walked with Benedict & their ?hearts burned within them? as he spoke of God.

+Sodano: ??Vergelt?s Gott,?? in Bavarian, may God reward you.

#Pope [3]: ?The church is a living being,? grows, transforms, ?but also remains always the same,? since it?s Christ?s body

#Pope [3]: Church is ?in the world, but not of the world.?

Several cardinals have their heads down as #pope [4] speaks, likely listening closely for any parting directions.

#Pope [3]: Through church, the mystery of incarnation remains always, Christ continues to walk world through church

#Pope [3]: ?I will continue to serve you with prayer, esp in the coming days? as you meet in conclave
