Admit it. Even if you are one of the people who gets all riled up when I write, you love getting riled up. I do my best to keep the conversation here at NCR provocative, even a little edgy at times. Now, we need you to do your part.

If NCR is a part of your day, chip in and help keep it going [1]. There is no better Catholic website in America, with a greater range of views, more in-depth reporting, analysis and commentary, than NCR. The week of the conclave, I went to another Catholic website and they had a few new items. We had a few new items every hour! Hell, even one of the cardinals admitted that he was learning about the papabile from John Allen's profiles!

No website has done a better job covering the controversial HHS mandate, nor has any website been a better forum for all the many impassioned discussions of that controversy. My colleague Jerry Filteau has forgotten more about the USCCB than most reporters ever learned.

In short, you love NCR or you wouldn't be reading this. So, help keep us going. Click on the donations buttons [1] for the web-a-thon, and make a contribution, Please.
