

Good Samaritan barber removed from park in Connecticut

Eloisa Perez-Lozano | Jun. 17, 2013 NCR Today

A good Samaritan charging only hugs for haircuts [1] won't be working in a Hartford city park due to residents' concerns for safety and sanitation, according to officials.

Eighty-two-year-old Anthony Cymerys, known as "Joe the Barber," has been offering haircuts for homeless people at Bushnell Park every Wednesday for 25 years and it was just a year ago that the city honored Cymerys for his charitable services.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/26/2015 - 19:34): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/good-samaritan-barber-removed-park-connecticut>

Links:

[1] <http://news.yahoo.com/barber-paid-hugs-kicked-conn-park-170423520.html>