

New York's Abortion Battle

Michael Sean Winters | Jun. 25, 2013 Distinctly Catholic

Last week, there was good news in the fight against abortion. The State Senate in New York voted down an attempt to expand the right to late term abortion. Unfortunately, Gov. Cuomo is now refusing to endorse the rest of the bill, which is focused on women's health, unless the abortion expansion language is added back in. Shame on him. But, kudos to Democratic State Senator Ruben Diaz, Sr. who has long supported the right-to-life. Here is the powerful speech he delivered to his colleagues (h/t to Democrats for Life of America for the link!):

Source URL (retrieved on 01/30/2015 - 02:54): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/new-yorks-abortion-battle>