

Robert Christian on the Inconsistent Consistent Ethic of Life

Michael Sean Winters | Feb. 26, 2014 | Distinctly Catholic

My friend and colleague at the Institute for Policy Research & Catholic Studies, Robert Christian, has a very provocative essay up at Ethika Politika [1] in which he challenges the anti-military intervention stance of some consistent ethic of life advocates. Provocative and very smart, Christian's essay raises tough questions of a kind young people have such a knack for posing, upsetting us older folks in our settled judgments. Bravo.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/31/2015 - 02:23): <http://ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/robert-christian-inconsistent-consistent-ethic-life>

Links:

[1] <http://ethikapolitika.org/2014/02/26/consistent-life-movements-inconsistent-commitment-life/>