Most climate scientists agree that the time to find clean and renewable sources of energy is now [1]. And although officials from Accra [2] to Ontario [3] are moving toward solar power, there are still questions about clean energy best practices.

Last month, an international group of scientists and engineers published a report [4] in the journal Nature Climate Change about the potential for solar power to replace less clean energy sources.
