18. The development of the cursus honorum (course of honor) gradually eliminated the diaconate as a stand-alone ministry. (T/F)
19. In the West, because women were never in the cursus honorum, the practice of ordaining women to the diaconate died out in the 12th century; abbesses were no longer ordained, but were blessed or consecrated. (T/F)

20. Several Orthodox churches never completely abandoned the ordinations of women as deacons. (T/F)

Extra credit: The 1967 document of the Second Vatican Council, Musica Sacram, states choirs that include women may not sing within the sanctuary. (T/F)

Essay: Given that history alone is not decisive, do you think the Catholic Church today can include women in the one order of deacon as it has been renewed following Vatican II? Do you think the Catholic Church should do so? Why? Why not?

Remember, you must include reference to the facts of revelation and history to support your argument regarding the sacramental ordination of women to the order of deacon.

Please return your answers to your bishop or patriarch.
