

Opinion

News

Spirituality

(Unsplash/Nathan McBride)

Tom Roberts

View Author Profile

troberts@ncronline.org

Joan Chittister

View Author Profile

Follow on Twitter at @joanchittister

Join the Conversation

Send your thoughts to Letters to the Editor. Learn more

November 13, 2024

Share on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

This is a conversation, based on a talk developed and refined over years, in which Sr. Joan Chittister describes how, in a life dedicated to serving God, neither God nor her idea of God remained static.

In the talk, she notes that belief in God is not an exceptional matter. "Every people on earth, in fact, has come to the juncture where only God is an answer to questions for which there are no answers. ... It is not the idea of God that sets us apart in the history of humanity. It is the kind of God in which we choose to believe that in the end makes all the difference."

So what kind of God does she believe in today? And how did she come to that understanding?

Joan takes us from her experience of God as a youngster alone in a church to her rejection of the all-male stereotype of a God imagined by men to a God that can't be contained or boxed or fit into convenient descriptions.

(Unsplash/Channel 82)

Leaning on the sixth-century wisdom of St. Benedict, her order's founder, she states: "He says, in essence, you really don't have to worry about searching for God. You have God. We're all born with God. Why? Because we're born of God." Deep in her own tradition, she finds fascinating new ways of understanding and imagining God with us today.

"Risking the Questions" is a joint project of Benetvision and NCR. This podcast has been made possible in part by the generosity of Bill and Jeanne Buchanan.

How to Listen

Click the "play" button inside this article to start the show. Make sure to keep the window open on your browser if you're doing other things, or the audio will stop.

From your mobile device:

You can listen and subscribe to "Risking the Questions" from any podcast app. If you're reading this from an iPhone or other Apple mobile device, tap this link to listen in Apple Podcasts. The podcast is also available on Spotify, at this link.

If you prefer another podcast app, you can find "Risking the Questions" there.

Advertisement

This story appears in the Risking the Questions feature series. View the full series.